

Podcast reflection Luca, Pit and Jussi

Starting the group project we needed a topic. Because we are all in to soccer and know a lot about it we choose one of the most important soccer events in the world, the Champions League. Because Borussia Dortmund had just been kicked out and with them being one of the biggest German clubs we wanted to talk about them and their best players Jude Bellingham and Erling Haaland. Then we gave each other roles, Jussi was leading the podcast, Pit was the interviewer and Luca was the guest and Dortmunds second coach. Regarding the roles we choose when we all speak so Jussi started speaking and brought Pit into the discussion, a bit later on Pit started interviewing Luca and at the end we were all involved and the speaking time was similar. As soon as we had that sorted we had to work by ourselves to find our information for the podcast. We had a look at different soccer apps to find standings of games and stats of players that we wanted to talk about in the podcast. We had a look at each other's notes and prepared to talk about the specific topics. Jussi prepared his opening sentence and searched for an intro and outro song on YouTube. Then we recorded our podcast. As soon as we had finished recording we reflected our work and wrote our reflection.

We were able to reach our goals well because our team synergy was good and we helped each other out a lot. We are happy with our podcast but we also learnt a lot for the future. We didn't split up the workload directly but because everybody was trying to help the work was split automatically and we all had the same workload. It was easy to find information to talk about it was hard to not get into each other's way during the podcast. In future I would define what length each topic is spoken about.
